CELEBRATORY PARTY

Westchester
Reform Temple

A long, narrow dining table is set for a celebration in a bright room with large windows. The table is covered with a white tablecloth and a central burlap runner. It is set with white plates, silverware, and red napkins. A centerpiece of orange and green flowers runs down the middle. The room has wooden walls and floors, and large windows looking out onto greenery.

A photograph of a modern interior space, likely a church or community center. The foreground shows large, light-colored wooden doors that are slightly ajar, revealing a bright, open social hall beyond. The hall has a high ceiling with exposed wooden beams and a large window with a grid pattern. The walls are also clad in wood. The lighting is warm and natural, coming from the window in the background.

The background of the image shows a large, bright event space. Several round tables are covered with dark blue tablecloths. Each table is surrounded by silver-colored Chiavari chairs with dark blue seat cushions. Some tables have small centerpieces of white flowers in glass vases. In the background, two men in dark clothing are standing near a long table covered with a blue cloth, possibly a buffet or bar area. The floor is a light-colored, polished tile. The overall atmosphere is formal and elegant.
